Founded in 2000, Regent Independent College is a sixth-form tutorial college, and part of the private education provider Regent Group. Based in the heart of London, RIC offers full-time education to students aged 16 and upwards through a variety of A-level courses. We believe the end result of education is character, and this ethos is at the forefront of everything we do.

RIC's main offering is A-levels, two- and one-year courses and retakes, but we can also cater for students who wish to resit their GCSEs.

Location

RIC is in the heart of London, on Great Titchfield Street. The facility has excellent transport links and is close to a variety of restaurants and shops. It boasts well-equipped classrooms, a student lounge, computer suites, free Wi-Fi and private study areas.

Affordable fees

While RIC is a fee-paying college, our tuition fees are very affordable for a college in the heart of London.

Specialist teachers

Our dedicated team of educators have an average of 15 or more years of teaching experience and are skilled experts in their respective fields. They prioritise an interactive, student-centred approach to teaching and advocate for the development of debate and critical thinking skills, rather than just the memorisation of material.

Within the classroom, students are encouraged to engage in meaningful conversations while mastering the techniques and skills necessary to communicate and solve problems at an advanced level that will help them both inside and outside of the classroom.

Small class sizes and an individualised approach

Unlike many other colleges that have up to 30 students per class, RIC has at most nine pupils per class. This empowers students to directly access one-to-one support and the individual attention they deserve to help them succeed. This personalised approach continues throughout RIC studies with a dedicated tutor advising on university choice, UCAS support and personal statements.

Specialist subject offerings

RIC offers an array of specialist focus subjects including Maths, Science, Economics, Business Studies and Psychology at Year 12 and Year 13, so students are sure to find a subject that interests them. Our team is committed to helping young adults thrive – whether they have previously struggled in large class sizes, haven't yet achieved the grades they needed, or couldn't access their desired subject at other colleges.

Personal development

This is a fundamental part of the RIC student experience. We are proud to offer a Personal Development and Achievement Programme to all students, designed to help them with:

We also offer Thinking into Character (TiC), our exclusive and innovative transformational programme, to all students.

This is designed to support and nurture their personal development and help in setting personal, educational and career goals by identifying achievements that they can build on. Through the TiC programme, students will learn how to:

Identify, set and achieve inspiring goals

Improve their self-image and re-write their life script

Close the gap between what they know they should do and the actions they actually take

Turn non-productive habits into productive habits

Overcome challenges and barriers to success

Develop leadership qualities

Students are required to attend weekly sessions, assemblies and other activities from September to Easter each academic year.

Bursaries

There are a number of bursaries and academic scholarships available. Please contact the Admissions team for more information.

Results and Destinations – Where do our students go after studying with us?

RIC is proud to accept students of all abilities and offers a wide range of courses that are often more affordable than other London colleges. The college focuses on adding value to our students' education, helping them to exceed their expected results. RIC has a supportive network that gives students the confidence they need to pursue their aspirations. RIC graduates have gone on to attend a wide range of prestigious universities including UCL, Birmingham, Leeds and Bristol to name a few. Our University Destinations list is available, please contact our Admissions team to request.

(ISI) PFE Accreditation

RIC is ISI Accredited, being rated "Good" and "Excellent" on pupils' personal development.

All students receive personalised support to help them make informed decisions about their next steps and support in preparing for progression to higher-level study.

Teachers quickly develop an effective rapport with students, using praise judiciously to motivate and encourage students. Teachers create an inclusive and empowering learning environment where students can confidently ask questions and clarify their understanding.
